

Qualification for In-company Training

International Competence Development in Technical and Vocational Education and Training (TVET)

For the implementation of a dual approach in TVET, structured and guided training and learning processes in the company are a critical success factor. Therefore, companies need to identify staff members who can be qualified as in-company instructors. This training follows a multiplier approach, which qualifies individuals from relevant private sector institutions to offer training to the instructors.

Content, elements, format and duration can be customised to the respective needs.
